The 'Future is Lookin' Bright' for the Canadian Collegiate Rodeo Association and its members.

The CCRA is a non-profit rodeo association whose membership is exclusive to students that are attending a Canadian Post Secondary Educational Institute while obtaining a minimum 9 credits, a 2.0 GPA per semester, as well as being a member of one of our CCRA rodeo teams.

The CCRA has grown over the years, with an approximate 200 members, 7 rodeo teams, and 8-10 sanctioned rodeos qualifying the top 12 in each event to participant in the Canadian College Finals Rodeo (CCFR) being held the long weekend in May.

Be Part of It

Our goal as an association is to elevate Canadian Collegiate Rodeo and make it the best we can.

Sponsorship Opportunities are now available for the upcoming Canadian College Rodeo Season, including our Finals in May.

Our student athletes not only work hard at competing in their respective rodeo events, but have high standards of academics, community involvement and dedication to the sport, its future, and our western heritage.

Their Future. Our Future. Our Western Heritage

Why Support the Canadian Collegiate Rodeo Association and their finals?

The CCRA's membership is composed of students attending Canadian College and Universities who share a common passion for the sport of rodeo. The success of these young adults in the arena is mirrored with the importance of their post secondary education. Their future is in the hands of our future, and our western heritage.

Like final exams at the end of a semester, the Canadian College Finals Rodeo is the final test of skill, determination and character in each of their rodeo events. This important event is only made possible through the generosity of amazing sponsors and volunteers. In addition to our seasonal rodeos, sponsorship money is also needed to host the finals and award the best competitors in the association.

CCRA contestants come from all across Canada including the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario. As a sponsor, you will have the opportunity to meet contestants at this seasons rodeos, as well as the finals. Come out and help cheer them on, along with their families, coaches, professional rodeo athletes and other fans all celebrating rodeo and our western heritage.

In return for your generosity your organization will be promoted throughout all 2024 CCRA events, including our finals May 17-19 in Brooks, Alberta. This promotion will be both in the arena and out, through signage, program advertising, announcements and social media.

Responsible Students

CCRA students work hard to maintain minimum 2.0 GPA. They also possess strong farm values including responsibility and accountability to others, and an understanding of consequences.

“Most of the farm kids I have taught have been a pleasure to work with because they work well in groups, have a good work ethic, and a manageable ego.”

George Gallant, Instructor DCM at Lethbridge College to then 2012 CCRA Team Roping Season Leader, Katy Lucas, current host and personality at the Cowboy Channel

Competitive Athletes

At the CCFR you are seeing the best collegiate rodeo athletes in Canada compete, many of whom go on to compete professionally after their college career .

“Participating in the CCRA taught me to prioritize my commitments and ensure that I was successfully meeting all of my school, rodeo and personal responsibilities. It taught me to persevere and be accountable for my actions. This helped me to find continued success both in and out of the rodeo arena.”

Scott Guenther, 6-time Canadian Finals Rodeo Qualifier, 4-Time National Finals Rodeo Qualifier, and CCRA Alumni

Bright Futures

When you combine a good work ethic, pride and accountability in your work, add in the will-to-win that competitive athletes have, you have the key to a successful future.

“College Rodeo can very well be the stepping stone to your future. Thirty five plus years ago I graduated from University and today I am still running my own successful marketing business and continue to be a competitive barrel racer. Balancing your education with the sport you love, is the first step in learning how to manage the rest of your life. Set goals. Work hard. Play hard. Meet new people. Do what you love. Enjoy life.”

Carolynn Knapp owner/operator of Diamond K Marketing, UofL Management Degree Graduate, 3x Canadian Finals Rodeo Qualifier, and past CCRA member.
